Introduction

The seventh month of the Egyptian Army’s comprehensive military operation “Sinai 2018” is characterized by the return of the old guard to the scene. Abdel-Fattah Al-Sisi has recently appointed Maj. General Mohamed Abdul Fadel Shousha as governor of North Sinai. Shousha, whose Ph.D. thesis was about development of Sinai, was a governor of North Sinai in 2008, and had a very bad reputation among the Sinai tribesmen. Also, Maj. General Mamdouh Abu-Zaid was appointed as director of the North Sinai Governorate Investigations Dept. He had served as Criminal Investigation Officer and Inspector General of the Governorate before the January 2011 Revolution. He also had a bad reputation because of his bad rights record and the violations against the Sinai people.

First: Military and security developments

3- The Comprehensive Sinai Process 2018

The Sinai Process 2018 continued for the seventh month in a row, as it was launched on February 9th. Following are some important remarks including:

a- The return of the old guards of the Mubarak regime to the scene, where Abdul Fattah al-Sisi, re-appointed Maj. General Mohamed Abdul Fadel Shousha as governor of North Sinai. Shousha, who occupied the same position in 2008, and worked as the governor of South Sinai in 2010, had a bad reputation in dealing with tribesmen. Minister of Interior Maj. General Mohammed Tawfik appointed Maj. General Mamdouh Abuzaid as Director of the North Sinai Governorate. The re-appointment of officers who served during the Mubarak era is part of the Ministry of Interior's strategy to benefit from them for their experience in the counterterrorism file. Maj. General Mamdouh Abuzaid had served in Sinai before the January Revolution (2011) in several positions, including the positions of criminal investigation agent and inspector of public security.

b- The two military statements that were issued in August about Operation Sinai 2018 failed to recognize the losses and casualties of the armed forces, despite the documented deaths of a number of officers and soldiers.

c- The Egyptian regime adopts a military-oriented policy that relies on the use of force and tightening the security grip in the Sinai. Although this policy might be successful in the short term, but it contributes to accumulation of problems, causing bad consequences in the future.

d- The Sinai Province organization is still capable of launching armed attacks against the army and police forces, albeit less efficiently and at a low pace.
e- The militant organization is still capable carrying out successful security operations in the city of Arish.

f- The Egyptian armed forces maintain isolation of areas south of the city of Sheikh Zuwaied in order to stifle some elements of the militant organization in those areas, according to the army.

g- Continued intensive activity of Israeli drones in terms of survey and targeting members of the Sinai Province, where August witnessed various missile attacks.

h- The army maintained demolition of houses and bulldozing of agricultural land in the Rafah area inside and outside the area that was declared a buffer zone. According to official figures, the losses of citizens resulting from the bulldozing of farms only exceeded one billion pounds.

j- The army and police forces maintained the policy of physical liquidation of detainees who are suspected of belonging to the militant organization. The National Security apparatus extra-judicially killed 11 detainees on 5 August, and 12 detainees on 12 August.

4- Israeli Drone Attacks and violation of sovereignty

During August, we observed seven penetrations of Israeli drones inside areas of operation in northeast Sinai including the areas of Sheikh Zuwaied and Rafah in violation of Egyptian sovereignty. These air penetrations varied between the aerial survey and shelling, including:

a- On 1 August, Israeli drones overflew the airspace of the south and west of Rafah and Sheikh Zuwaied and targeted Al-Tuma village, south of Sheikh Zuwaied, and Shabana village, south of Rafah and Balaa village, west of Rafah with four missiles.
b- On August 5, an Israeli drone fired three missiles at targets in the western part of Rafah City.

c- On 12 August an Israeli drone carried out reconnaissance in the villages of Balaa and Yamit in the Egyptian Rafah area.

d- On 21 August, Israeli drones carried out aerial reconnaissance and targeting of areas south of Sheikh Zuwaid and Rafah.

e- On 22 August an Israeli drone fired a missile the village of Masoura in Rafah, in coincidence with the flight of Israeli reconnaissance drones in areas south of Rafah.

g- On 27 August, two Israeli drones carried out aerial survey the Egyptian Rafah port, Yamit Village and some villages south of Rafah.

Second: The Economic Situation in Sinai

Late August, Abdul Fattah al-Sisi appointed Maj. General Mohamed Abdul Fadel Shousha as governor of North Sinai. Shousha, who occupied the same position in 2008, and worked as the governor of South Sinai in 2010, had a bad reputation in dealing with tribesmen. The Ph.D. thesis of Maj. General Shousha was about the development in Sinai.

The economic situation in Sinai during August was as follows:

a- Losses to farmers in North Sinai amounting to more than one billion pounds, as a result of the bulldozing of farms the Egyptian army forces.

b- Complete eviction of Rafah beyond the declared buffer zone.

c- The interruption of drinking water for long periods in many neighborhoods within the city of Arish.
The indiscriminate and continuous detention of residents of the cities of Sheikh Zuwaïd and Rafah at the military and security checkpoints in Sinai, which led to reducing their ability to movement, trade and medical treatment.

Continued fuel crisis resulting in raising the fees of transportation.

Frequent power interruption in the cities of Rafah and Sheikh Zuwaïd.

Continued disruption of telephone lines, mobile networks and the internet in the cities of Sheikh Zuwaïd and Rafah as well as various areas of North Sinai.
